“Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you...”
(Matthew 7:7)

I had set aside today for traveling to Virginia Beach, Virginia, for the Annual Meeting of Baptist World Mission. I had been looking forward to this meeting for several months, both for opportunities to reconnect with the members of this church family that had faithfully supported me in Haiti and for time with fellow missionaries.

That changed when I visited my medical provider after the accident of September 17. I asked her for her medical advice about this trip, and the reply was essentially “too”—too much driving in too short a time, too soon after this major accident.

There was also the matter of the rental vehicle and the need for another car. A friend helped me start that process at the end of September, and we looked at a vehicle to help me with ideas. That experience and a lot of information helped me narrow the choices. I learned a lot about internet searches, and I am grateful for my friend who helped me with those. At the beginning of this week, I asked God specifically for guidance to the right car within my budget and by the end of Wednesday. I drove my fully-paid-for new-to-me car (2022 Chevrolet Equinox) off the lot on Wednesday around 2 pm.

Thank you for praying! God graciously answered our prayers, guided the search, and provided the answer. All praise to Him!

“For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.” (Matthew 7:8)
